Capture Burglar In Orland Park IGA Store

Raymond Wilson, 33, identified by Orland Park police as a parolee from the Georgia state penitentiary, is being held on a charge of burglary following his seizure in the IGA Foodliner, in the Orland Park shopping plaza early Sunday morning (Feb. 26).

Wilson was trying to escape by hacking his way thru a ventilator to the roof when he was captured, according to Orland Park Police Commissioner Frank Guetter.

Edward Schuetz, who operates the foodliner, and his wife had been out Saturday night and on returning home early Sunday morning they circled by the store for a routine check. Schuetz noticed the night lights that were supposed to be burning had been turned off. He entered the store, switched on a light and immediately saw that an attempt had been made to open the store safe. He also heard sounds.

Stepping out quickly he locked the door and rushed to a nearby phone and called Orland Park police. Commissioner Guetter and two officers, Arthur Cochrell and Robert Olson arrived at the scene within a matter of minutes.

Olson was dispatched to the rear of the building in the event the intruder attempted to escape that way while the others, including Schuetz went in the front door.

They found a man trying to get thru the space occupied by a ventilating fan and wielding a hatchet in an endeavor to free himself. He was quickly brought to floor level after a fast search failed to reveal any accomplices in the store.

Police found Wilson has been staying in a room at 7741 S. Union st., Chicago. He claimed that he had been in Chicago about three weeks and had intended to fly back to Atlanta Sunday so he could report to his parole agent on Monday, according to Commissioner Guetter.

Wilson is alleged to have served 11 years of a 20 year sentence for armed robbery and is on parole.

He denied he had any accomplices. However, police got a report about 20 minutes after Wilson was taken to the effect that someone was attempting to steal a car in the village. A check failed to find anyone in the neighborhood but about 15 minutes later a car was stolen that was later abandoned at 114th and Harlem in Worth. Police believe this was one of the group that broke in the IGA store. The methods used in Orland Park were similar to those in recent food store burglaries in Oak Lawn and Midlothian, police said.

Wilson professed to have no friends or connections in the area but Sunday morning two lawyers appeared at the New Bedford police station where Wilson was being held with the idea of getting him out on bond.

Police Magistrate Albert Wheeler had set Wilson's bond at $35,000. On Monday Wilson's counsel went to the state's attorney's office in Chicago to start a move to get the bond reduced, which make police more curious than ever about their prisoner.

Set May 20 As Date For L-W Educational Fund Referendum

Saturday, May 20 was the date set for the educational fund referendum for Lincoln-Way high school, at a meeting of the board of education last Thursday night.

When voters go to the polls in May they will be asked to agree to a raise of 21 cents on the assessed valuation of $100. The present valuation of the Lincoln-Way district is 40 and a half million dollars. This would bring additional revenue of approximately $80,000, if the proposition passes.

Thursday night members of the finance and public relations committees of the Lay Citizens committee met with the board to concur on the advisability of an election, the date and amount.

"An influx in the population of Lincoln-Way, causing a rise in expenses necessitates the referendum," A. Hunter Chapman, principal, said. "In September of 1961 an additional 170 students will be enrolled. By September of 1962, a total of 300 students will be added. At a teacher-pupil ratio of one teacher for 20 to 25 students, this will mean hiring additional faculty."

In referring to the last referendum which was defeated, the board said, "People in this district want a first rate school with a strong, academic program, and of course will have to pay for it. We have to have this referendum go thru to keep Lincoln-Way a first rate school. If the bond issue fails, Lincoln-Way will start slipping to a second rate school and it's a long uphill climb to regain what we could lose."

Lewis Loebe of New Lenox, chairman of the public relations committee, told board members that the committee would be active in getting facts and figures to every property owner in the district, in layman's language to be understood by the voter.

"Each home owner will know exactly what the tax hike will cost him per year if he knows the assessed valuation of his property. Straight facts and figures will be what we give the voters. Any member of my committee will be available to answer any and all question. What we must beware of are the unfounded rumors that start circulating. If anyone hears such rumors, we hope they are interested enough to contact any of us and get the true picture."

Lincoln-Way Launches 'Share-The-Fare' Program

Foreign Student day is set for today March 2 at Lincoln-Way high school. An all school assembly will open the day as a kick-off for the Lincoln-Way Student Council's "SHARE IN THE FARE" plan to bring a foreign student to Lincoln Way again next year.

Ragnar Magnus of Iceland and currently a foreign exchange student at Joliet Township High School and Unni Fallan from Norway and foreign exchange student from Blue Island Community High School will share in the all school assembly with Lincoln-Way's foreign student, Edo Campi, Jane Berlin, Lin-

Loebe said.

Other business at the meeting consisted of announcing the return of Earl Dieken, as curriculum superintendent at Lincoln-Way. Dieken took a leave of absence last year, for one year, to serve on the foreign relations committee and subcommittee of North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary schools. He will return to Lincoln-Way's staff in September, Chapman said.

Tax objections being filed by the railroads in the district were reviewed for the board and committees by Chapman.

It was pointed out that the 1958 station wagon, used in the driver education program at the school, as well as for school business trips, was in a decrepit condition. Figures on purchasing a new vehicle in order to continue the driver-education program will be obtained for the next board meeting. Cost of the vehicle is returned to the school in listing depreciation on the car each year it was explained. The state also subsidizes the driving program.

May Try Caucus Plan For Frankfort School Posts

The caucus idea of selecting candidates for school boards has made its appearance at Frankfort and a meeting is scheduled to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the grade school building for that purpose, it was announced by the committee in charge. The caucus plan is said to have the backing of the Frankfort Civic Association.

Caucus advocates say any persons interested in running for the school board should attend tonight's meeting.

Under the caucus plan the candidates picked by that body has the endorsement and support of those who make it up. The caucus plan was explained is not intended to prevent anyone from running for the school board who wants to become a candidate and files the necessary nominating petitions.

Terms of two of the Frankfort grade members expire next month, W. Leonard Patterson and Vernon Hansen.

Both are to be candidates for re-election. Both men are engaged in farming and both vitally interested in school problems, they stated in announcing they would take out nominating petitions.

Mr. Patterson said sometime ago that he did not believe he would be a candidate for re-election. However, he has been quite active in the program for expanding the present school plant. A plan is now under consideration for adding six room to the present structure instead of erecting a new building. Experts advised such a step. Quite a number of persons interested in the school's future urged Mr. Patterson to reconsider, pointing out that if he declined to run some might interpret the action to mean that he was against the expansion program.

"Since I am deeply interested in seeing the school grow, as it must if we are to take proper care of the children of the community, I would not want to do anything to block it," Mr. Patterson said, "so since quite a number of people think I can aid the program by seeking re-election, I will do so."

Some petitions had been taken out for Dr. Otto Novota last week but it is understood now he will not be a candidate.

Oil Firm Asks To Be Annexed

The Standard Oil Division of the American Oil Co. presented a petition to the Mokena village board asking that its property at Wolf rd. and LaPorte rd. be annexed to the village. The petition was presented by Attorney George Sangmeister Jr. at the regular board meeting Feb. 21.

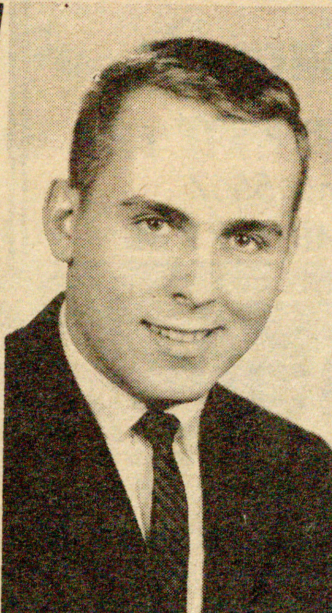

No action will be taken on the petition until the two parties can make arrangements on sewer connections costs and payment arrangements.

Mayor James Marti pointed out that the annexation of the station will aid the village thru sales tax revenue.

Local Needs Important Too

With spring not too far away one may expect a step up in news concerning proposed highway construction.

We would like to hear that the state has plans to improve U. S. 30 between Joliet and Chicago Heights but will be more surprised if we do than if we don't.

We are not against new roads, we are not against super roads because a steadily growing population will require more roads but we hope that those in charge of appropriations for highway building will hold some out for improving existing systems.

U. S. 30, as everyone should be aware, is a national highway extending from the east to the west coast. There are sections where it is a very fine road. There are also sections where it is a poor road. One might not be too far afield in describing the section between Joliet and the junction with Cicero avenue -- about five miles west of Chicago Heights -- as very poor. It is narrow and quite rough in spots.

The Lincoln highway carries a lot of traffic. There is a lot of it that is interstate but there is also considerable local travel. The federal government and various states are now engaged in building another transcontinental east and west highway, FAI 80, which is to pass north of Mokena and New Lenox and cut across the south side of Joliet.

Undoubtedly this will siphon off some of the interstate traffic from U.S. 30 but it will be of little value to persons living in New Lenox, Mokena, Frankfort and the other communities along the Lincoln highway.

All the emphasis now seems to be placed on super highways and unless some pressure is brought to bear on the state to hold back funds for the upkeep and improvement of roads serving the smaller communities, it is conceivable that the bulk of it would go for expressways built primarily to serve large cities.

U.S. 30 should be widened between Joliet and Cicero avenue. It would help a lot if the widening were carried out north and west of Joliet.

We hope that various civic groups, service clubs and other organizations in the communities served by the Lincoln highway will acquaint their legislators and other state officials with the need of not only keeping the road up but improving it.

We will not get very far on silent wishes.

On Second Thot

By GLENN F. LOGAN

Jefferson Throtbottom - member of an ancient and distinguished family whose coat of arms shows the figure of a man with crossed arms and feet, recumbent in a hammock with the motto "Spirits Frum-ent!" emblazoned on the fringe of said hammock - was lolling in my most comfortable chair. The hammock was lacking but the recumbent figure appeared the same as on the family crest and the odor on his breath served very well as the motto.

Jeff was singing softly to himself. "I'm dancing with tears in my eyes," Jeff sang and then broke off. "I believe," he said, "that those lyrics were intended to show that altho heart-broken by the discovery that his or her love had been tossed into the discard, the singer is making the best of it and while outwardly gay and carefree his or her heart really isn't in it."

"These lyrics were never intended to cast reflection upon the terpsichorean skill of her or his partner. You know right away that this singer would gladly hobble home with black and blue marks on her or his toes if the bruises were only inflicted by the right gal or man."

"Personally," Jeff went on, "I can think of much better place to nurse heartbreak than on a dance floor. One is in a sort of double jeopardy deal there not only does he or she have an aching back but also run over feet and fractures or dislocation of various and sundry vertebrae as a result of having been stiffarmed elbowed, or caught and bounced between a couple of pairs of those extroverts who whirl around in a quasi form of acrobatic dancing."

"On the whole," Jeff continued, "dancing is a pleasant healthful, relaxing form of recreation. One should never make work of it. Trying to remember a lot of details can be fatal, just like trying to think of all the things you should do and all the things you shouldn't do when hitting a golf ball. You flub the shot. And if you arrive at a dance thinking of what you should do and shouldn't do you can also make a mess of things."

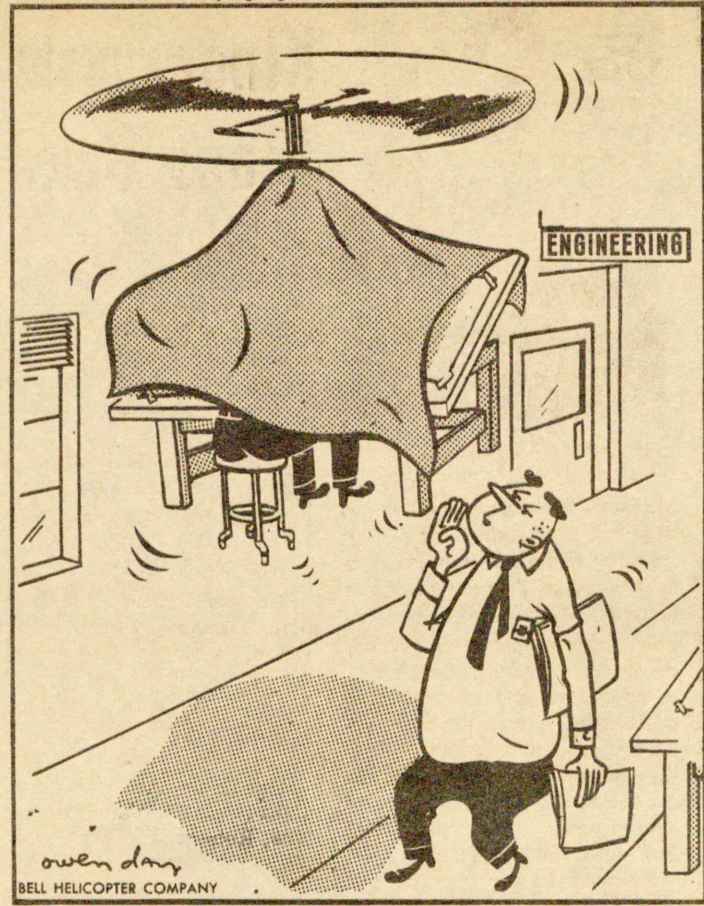

"Now with my left foot," you may say, "I am supposed to . . . hey, now where did my left foot go?" Doubts assail you. Maybe you left it at home and then you find yourself reaching for the panic button.

"I recall one occasion when a friend of mine . . . maybe you have heard me speak of him, Z. Wellington Fitzgilly? No? Well, no matter. Nice chap. Well, Fitzgilly came to a dance one night all keyed up to try the tango and the rhumba."

"I might say this was a new field for him. He could fox-trot, waltz, two step and was at home in those walk around numbers but had never tangoed or rhumbed in public. It was a nice dance, a black tie affair. It was a nasty night, rain turning to snow but inside there was light, music, refreshments and gaiety--in the order named--so who cared. "Fitzgilly came all bundled up, even wearing overshoes so his dancing shoes would be dry."

COPTER CARTOON

by owen day

"New helicopter design, Reginald?"

He checked his things, had a couple social glasses to erase the chill, and then made his way to the ballroom still intent on taking a whack at the tango and rhumba. "The first dance was a fox-trot, so was the second and third. Came a waltz, a two step, another waltz. Ordinarily these dances would have been duck soup to Z. Wellington but he just couldn't get with it. "For one thing the floor was a mess. Gummy. He said as much to his partner in the first dance."

"Sticky floor tonight," he remarked. "Probably a lot of the people came in with wet shoes." The girl suddenly clutched him and gasped as one of her feet went flying as they made a turn.

"Sticky," she echoed recovering her balance and breath, looking at him puzzled. "I was just thinking it was one of the slickest floors I've been on."

"Fitzgilly dismissed the words as mere vaporing. She slipped again but Fitzgilly was steady as a rock. Dances and partners changed and Fitzgilly began to feel himself the victim of a giant conspiracy, headed by the committee in charge, whose business surely would have been to see that the floor was in proper condition. His partners appeared to be in the plot too."

"One thing the situation did accomplish was that Fitzgilly stopped worrying about tangos and rhumbas, which was just as well because the band didn't play any tangos or rhumbas anyway."

"His whole mind was now taken up with the floor. He was muttering."

"What did you say?" his partner asked.

"Maybe they threw beer on it" he answered and his tone was bitter.

"Beer?" his partner appeared startled at the thot and drew away a little. "I haven't seen any beer up here."

"Alright then," retorted the nettled Fitzgilly, "maybe it isn't beer. Maybe they threw punch on it. Maybe they sprayed it with martinis, manhattans, and old fashioned. Maybe the committee sprayed it with varnish remover."

"What on earth are you talking about?" his partner demanded. "The floor, the floor," snapped Fitzgilly, "what else. It's so sticky it's like trying to dance on a carpet, and a long pile carpet at that."

"His partner slipped. Fitzgilly held her securely but looked offended too. He figured she was mocking him. He also was wondering why all of the dancers didn't stop and walk off the floor in mass protest to the condition of the floor."

"At last the party ended. Fitzgilly got his things from the check room and went home. He was still fuming about the floor when he pulled into his garage. He was about to douse the car lights when a thot struck him."

"By golly," he said, and snapped his fingers. "I forgot to get my overshoes." At the same time he glanced down at his feet. He hadn't forgotten his overshoes. They were on his feet. They had been on his feet all evening.

"Ah me!" Jeff sighed, "dancing with tears in one's eyes may be a handicap but nothing like a pair of overshoes. Try it sometime for kicks."

Washington News Letter

BY CONG. N. M. MASON

Why all the recent fuss about the rules committee of the house "bottling up" legislation, thereby preventing the house from voting on such legislation? The fact is that a simple majority of the house membership can take any bill from the rules committee and have the bill voted on by the house membership. All that is necessary is for a majority of the house to sign a discharge petition to take any bill from any committee and bring it to the floor of the House for action.

Naturally, there is great reluctance on the part of members of congress to force a bill out of the hands of a committee. It has been tried 500 times during the past 40 years, and only 22 times has a petition been successful. Of these 22 times, only two bills became law, the others either died in the Senate or were vetoed by the President.

The rules of the house make it impossible for any committee to thwart the will of a majority of the house members. As the Washington Evening Star so aptly put it: "It has been demonstrated time and time again that a majority of the House, if it wants to vote on a bill, can always bring it to a vote--rules committee or no rules committee."

The stockmarket continues to attract much larger volume of trading than was customary for a number of months prior to the first of the year. Analysts have been noting that this increased volume has been accompanied by an upward price trend and with stocks on the New York Stock Exchange showing a greater number on the up side than on the down side. These factors are closely watched by professional traders.

An analyst quoted in market comments, states, "This is the healthiest kind of market. The gains are wide enough to bring stock out of portfolios and the drops are deep enough to lure out bargain hunters."

Fortune Magazine comment, notes that ingot production rose from 46 per cent of capacity in December, to 52 per cent in mid-January. (This figure is now reported as 54 per cent.) Fortune's article notes that steel production is important in judgment of analysts. Stock prices in three months to February, had risen about 12 per cent from their 1960 lows.

The final Eisenhower budget was higher than anticipated by Fortune's financial editors and they report it was likely higher than anticipated by the Kennedy experts. The article expects the federal budget to rise faster than the recent rate of $6 billion per year. State and local spending has been going up by $3 billion per year.

The article notes that new contracts by federal government will be about $86 billion in this fiscal year against $75.3 billion in fiscal 1960 and $80.6 billion in fiscal 1959.

The rise in defense spending of $5.6 billion is stated as twice that expected in the magazines estimates made in August. The article expects most of the procurement rise will take place in the next six months. It is also expected that the increase will stimulate hiring as well as orders for materials and components.

J. A. Livingston of the Philadelphia Bulletin regularly surveys a bulletin of forecasters. These men expected a gross national product of $504 billion in 1961 but Fortune's financial editors expect this figure to be $520 billion in 1961 in real terms and slightly higher in terms of current dollars. The editors believe that the 1962 figure will be about $545 billion in real terms and $560 in current dollar values.

The article expects half of the increases to be in terms of price rises. The rise is expected in both commodities and services.

The National Bureau of Economic Research figures indicate this recession to have been as mild as that of 1926-27 which had been the mildest on record.

Fortune editors had predicted a fall of about 6 per cent in business activity and this was about the figure reached. They point out that real recessions follow a capital-spending spree and that this was not the case. Rather it was mainly an inventory situation brought about by results of the steel strike. Steel consumption in 1960 was about 103 million tons which is about 70 per cent of capacity and 1961 consumption is expected to be about the same. Increase in steel mill activity is expected since inventories are much lower than early 1960. Steel sales also were hampered by cut backs in auto assemblies which are expected to accelerate shortly.

turers at 8 cents a pound less than its price to American mills. We have seen foreign nations after foreign nations impose quotas against American-made exports. We advocate a return to a realistic tariff and quota system that will protect essential American industries against unfair competition.

LOSS OF OUR GOLD RESERVES

The loss of our gold reserves, now going to other nations, is a very grave matter. Definite and rather painful steps must be taken to halt that outflow of gold. Since 1958, the deficit in our balance of payments has amounted to nearly $11 billion, of which $5 billion in gold was withdrawn by other nations from our gold supply at Fort Knox. Why this loss in our gold reserves?

We have a balance of exports over imports. This balance, however, is more than offset by our foreign military expenditures, by our foreign travel spending, by our foreign travel expenditures, and especially by our huge foreign investments --all of which constitute a drain upon our gold reserves.

What can or should be done to stop this drain? The following have been suggested:

1. Limit or restrict the foreign investments of Americans

Over 50 southern Cook county 4-H leaders attended a training school dealing with the use of demonstrations and how junior leaders can assist in 4-H club programs.

The training was conducted by G. W. Stone and Miss Delores Parrott, of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture 4-H staff.

The demonstration training was conducted as a work shop and groups of leaders actually prepared demonstrations.

Leaders "drafted" to present demonstrations which were judged by the rest of the leaders, were: Mrs. Harwood Stellwagen and Earl Siemsen, Tinley Park; Mrs. E. W. Mueller, Midlothian; and Herbert Kohl, Matteson. Many thanks to these leaders for their cooperation.

We are also indebted to the South Cook 4-H Fair Association for sponsorship of the meal, which the leaders enjoyed at noon.

Extension councils in agriculture and home economics give guidance to the local educational efforts of the Cooperative Extension Service. These councils meet monthly to hear reports of the farm and home advisers and assistants, and to evaluate and plan programs. Representatives of the councils met recently in Yorkville with other council representatives from ten counties. They discussed the role of the councils in conducting educational programs. Detailed discussions centered on organization of councils to do the job.

Attending the Yorkville meeting from this area were: Mrs. H. D. Bowyer from Orland Park, a member of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture extension advisory committee Mrs. M. G. Kuersten, Homewood, vice - president of the Home Economics Extension Council; Mrs. John J. Winter, Matteson, secretary of the Home Economics Extension Council; Wm. G. Keuch, Homewood, vice-president of the Agricultural Extension Council; Carl Engelhardt, Tinley Park, Agricultural Extension Council member, and associate farm adviser, William F. Whiteside.

National 4-H Club Week will be observed March 4 through 11. 4-H clubs will be participating in a window display contest to help draw attention to the efforts of 4-H members and leaders throughout the country. Local clubs also will be conducting special activities in their own communities in observance of National 4-H Club Week. If you know of a boy or girl interested in becoming a 4-H Club member, this would be an appropriate time to get them started. For further information contact the associate farm adviser, William F. Whiteside, Tinley Park.

The University of Illinois College of Agriculture has prepared a new book of report forms to aid crop - share tenants and their landlords. This book provides the tenant with five report forms to be used during the year to keep his landlord informed as to what is happening on the farm. This should help considerably in improving landlord - tenant relations and conducting the farming operation on a more business-like basis. Copies of this new book may be obtained from the extension office in Tinley Park.

Hints For Homeowners

by: JAMES FIZZEL, ASS'T.

FARM ADVISER

It is almost time to begin purchasing seeds for annual flower gardens. In order to have an effective garden careful selection of varieties is necessary. Seed catalogs are good sources of information on size, color, and habit of various plants.

The great improvements in annual varieties during the last few years is due to the introduction of hybrids. This has caused a renewed interest in annuals. The ten most popular species account for 95% of the purchases of annual seeds and plants. They are: Petunias, pansies, snapdragons, asters, salvia, marigold, carnation, phlox drumondii, verbenas, and Zinnia. The following are short descriptions of some of the popular varieties.

Petunias are the most consistently improved species of plant. The constant flow of improved varieties probably accounts for their tremendous popularity. Petunias have been developed into several different groups. To know which is best suited to a given use, a knowledge of these groups is necessary. The large flowered double often used as pot plants are called All Doubles. They do not have the good habit or the prolific bloom of single varieties. California Giants have large single flowers. They are not particularly good as a bedding plant, but useful in flower boxes.

Grandifloras are divided into three sub-groups, ruffled, fringed, and dwarfed. The ruffled and fringed grandifloras are the single large flowered bedding petunias. The newer F1 and F2 hybrid varieties are superior to the older inbred types. The multifloras are the small flowered single varieties which can be counted on to supply a continuing abundance of bloom all season. The most intensive breeding has been done on this class of petunia and from which the best results can be expected. The new hybrids are in this class. The dwarf hybrid petunias are not hybrids in the true sense of the word, but inbreds. Most of the old time varieties belong to this group. Some of these varieties are still among the best sellers. Petunias are easily grown from seed sown about April 1. They bloom best in full sun but tolerate some shade. Insects and diseases are not a problem. Old flowers should be removed for best bloom. Space 12 inches apart. Pansies are not truly a good bedding plant but are early blooming and provide good color. If the weather remains cool, pansies may bloom all summer. Pansies are grown from seed sown in July. The seedlings are grown through the winter with some protection for bloom the next spring. An easier method, if heated cold frames are available, is to sow seed in January or February. These plants will be smaller but will produce flowers for spring. The seed is sold in mixtures of any one of three strains: Maple Leaf Giant, Steele Giant or Swiss Giant. Plants are available in spring from nurseries and garden centers.

Marigolds are easily grown and are attractive plants. Three distinct classes of marigold are available. The tall African is useful for cutting but requires staking. Subdivisions within the class are Tostitos or ball flowered, Carnation flowered, and Mum flowered. Dwarf French Marigolds are the true bedding form. Many varieties are available with both single and double flowers. Recently some hybrids between dwarf and tall marigolds have appeared on the market. The most recent development has been the edging marigold, T. signata pumila. These are small varieties with light green foliage and very small single flowers.

Seed sown indoors - April 15- will produce nice plants for borders by May 20. Marigolds are not bothered by pests but a virus does occasionally infect them. They need full sun for best flowers and will stand drought. Dwarf French Marigolds sometimes fail to bloom during extremely hot weather.

The Zinnia has long been a favorite garden flower. It stands the hottest summers and blooms until frozen in fall. Many varieties of many sizes are available. The Cactus, Fantasy, and Dahlia flowered, and the Giant mammoth types are tall growing, reaching 30 inches. The pumila and lilliput varieties reach 18 inches while the cupid and lineare varieties are suitable for edging. Insects and the fungus, mildew sometimes attack Zinnias. They can be controlled by dusting with a complete garden dust containing sulphur.

A "Bedding Plant Chart" available from the Assoc. Farm Adviser's office, South St. & 66th Court, Tinley Park, lists many more annual plants and general characteristics of each.

Reavis Wrestlers Win State, Coaches Pick SWS Teams

The Southwest Suburban conference is one of the strongest in the state in wrestling. Reavis won the state finals at Champaign last week end with three first places and one second and Sandburg high also had a first place winner.

At the beginning of the district tournament there were 187 schools represented. At the conclusion of the sectionals some 90 schools were left in the finals at Champaign. There were 12 first places to be won so when Reavis walked off with three of them there weren't many left for the others.

Dave Jackson, of Reavis, won the 103-pound division; Don Graf the 133-pound class and Willie Roy, the 145-pound event, Bernie Mehaljevic, of Reavis took second in the 95-pound matches.

Cliff Cheatwood, of Lincoln-Way, who has had an excellent year in the 103-pound division was eliminated in the first match of the state finals. He suffered a separation of a rib cartilage in the course of the match and required medical attention.

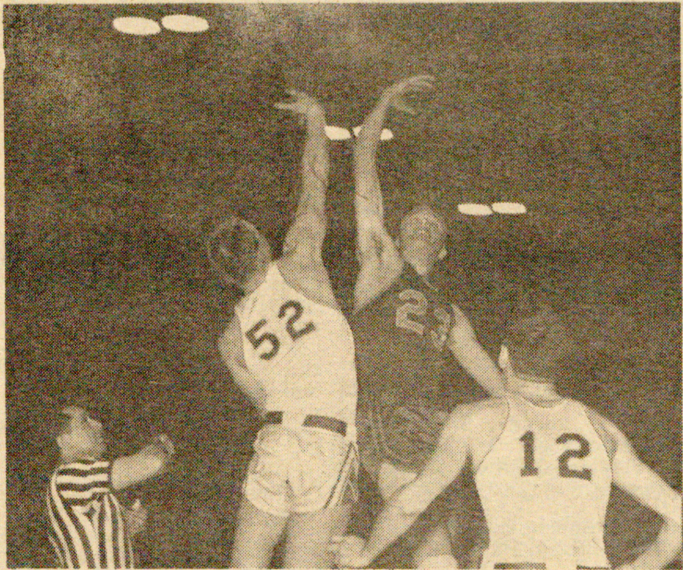

Sandburg's first place was won by RONALD Semetis, in the 127-pound class. Semetis won the district and sectional crowns and then went thru four matches in the finals to win the state title, throwing Dick Nally, of Savannah high, in the last match.

Ronald is a senior at Sandburg but has a brother, James, a sophomore who is showing considerable talent as a wrestler. Two brothers who have graduated, Warner and Lawrence, also were top hands in this sport. Warner made an excellent showing while attending Eastern Illinois university at Charleston and last year won a championship in the AAU meet at Chicago.

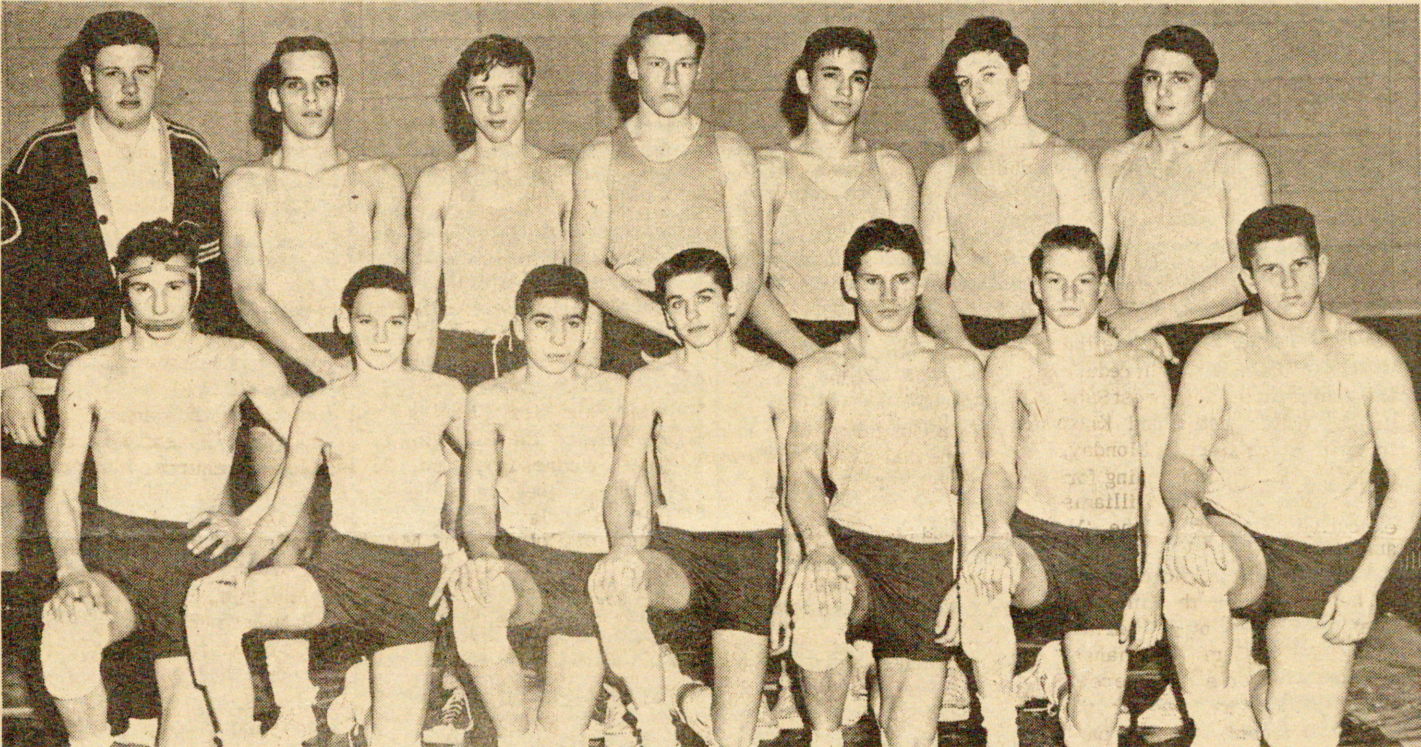

As could be expected Reavis placed five men on the first all-conference wrestling team picked by SWS mat coaches; Sandburg had two and Lincoln-Way one.

Cheatwood and Dave Jackson of Reavis tied for the first team place for the 103-pound class. Ed Smith, became over age at the beginning of the second semester, won enough the first part of the season to be picked for the heavyweight division on the second team. Reavis placed four on the second team and Sandburg one.

127-lb. Ken Omahan, Reavis. 133-lb. Steve Bisbikis, Oak Lawn, Marty Lyman, Rich (tie). 138-lb. Ray Bruck, Oak Lawn. 145-lb. Dave Cofran, Homewood-Flossmoor, Frank Maciejewski, Reavis, Wayne Rife, Ev. Pk., Max Wilcoxon, Sandburg (tie). 154-lb. Jim Russell, Rich. 165-lb. Dale Timmons, Bremen. 180-lb. Harland Dodge, Rich and Ralph Wittenkeller, Reavis (tie). Heavy Wt. Ed Smith, Lincoln-Way.

THE BACK OF THEIR HANDS to this one No. 52 is Bremen's Fred Cornish and No. 23 is Ron Lindgren of the Sandburg squad. They both got up nicely but apparently the ball was just out of their reach. Waiting tensely in the hope that Cornish would get the tip is No. 12, John Ragsdale.

Mustangs Beat Knights 41-38 In Overtime Of Final Game

BY BILL SLUIS

In the final SouthWestSuburban game of the season, the Lincoln-Way Knights lost a heartbreaking 41-38 overtime decision to Evergreen Park Friday night on the Mustangs court. The Knights were hampered by the loss of Duane Warning, who saw action thru less than half the game because of fouls. Rich Smith scored the winning point for Evergreen on a free throw with 43 seconds remaining in the overtime period.

Only one foul was charged against the Mustangs during the entire second half of the game, which didn't make Lincoln-Way fans happy. The officiating left much to be desired.

The loss left Lincoln-Way in a tie for the conference championship with the Homewood-Flossmoor Vikings, who took an easy victory over Oak Lawn Friday night.

Lincoln-Way and the Mustangs both got a slow start, and E.P. led 9-4 at the close of the first period. At half time, however, the Knights had overcome the deficit and taken a 21-19 lead. The Mustangs employed a "stall offense" in which they took only nine shots during the first half. They scored on five of them for a .556 percentage. Lincoln-Way used its standard plays and a press to score six buckets during the first half.

The Knights lengthened their lead in the third quarter, gaining a 33-29 advantage by the opening of the final eight minutes. Bob Lichtenwalter and Ron Yunker each scored four points, with Lichtenwalter scoring one of his buckets just before the buzzer sounded. Bill Yulich scored five for Evergreen.

Two points by Bob Lichtenwalter with 5:46 remaining in the game lengthened the Lincoln-Way bulge to six points. The Knights held this lead as Jim Tripton and Lichtenwalter traded baskets, making the score 37-31. But with 4:31 showing Duane Warning, who had sat out the second and third periods, suffered his fifth foul and left the game, Evergreen Park rallied on a free throw by Bill Yulich, a gift toss by Rich Smith, and buckets by Chuck Herich and Jim Tripton. Tripton's 25-footer with 1:07 remaining tied the contest 37-37. Lincoln-Way attempted to score shortly before the final gun, but the bid failed. Despite the roughness of the contest at this point, not a single foul was called against the Mustangs during the entire fourth period.

In the over time period no scoring was done thru the first minute and three-quarters. At this juncton an "over-and-back" violation was called against Lincoln-Way. A dispute broke out and the Mustangs were awarded a technical shot. They scored and took possession of the ball with a 38-37 lead. With 43 seconds left Rich Smith added another free lob and made the score 39-37 for the Mustangs. With 0:32 on the wall Al Waldvogel brought the Knights within one with a free throw, but it was too little. As 0:26 flashed by Chuck Herich scored another basket for the home team. It was the "last straw" in a horrendous evening for the Knights. Evergreen Park won by a 41-38 final score.

It was the third loss the Knights of Lincoln-Way have suffered in 24 games. It was their second overtime loss in 14 SWS tilts.

Score by Quarters:
Knights 4 17 12 4 1 - 38
Evergreen Park 9 10 10 8 4 - 41

Eagles Nose Braves To Wind Up SWS Season

BY JOE STRAIN

The Bremen Braves suffered a setback on the last game of the schedule for the season to the Sandburg Eagles last Friday night by a score of 48-46 at the Bremen gym. This dropped the Braves into a fourth place spot conferencewise. Had the odds swung the other way on the outcome of the contest Bremen would have had the number three allocation on the records but that's the way the ball bounces.

The game started evenly enough with the score at the quarter showing 12 points apiece at the end of the period and each team working hard to control the play. Realizing that this game would be the windup for place honors, the squads of both teams were attempting to make it the best contest of the season. Backed by loyal supporters each team struggled valiantly to make the all important initial gain only to have the other counteract the effort.

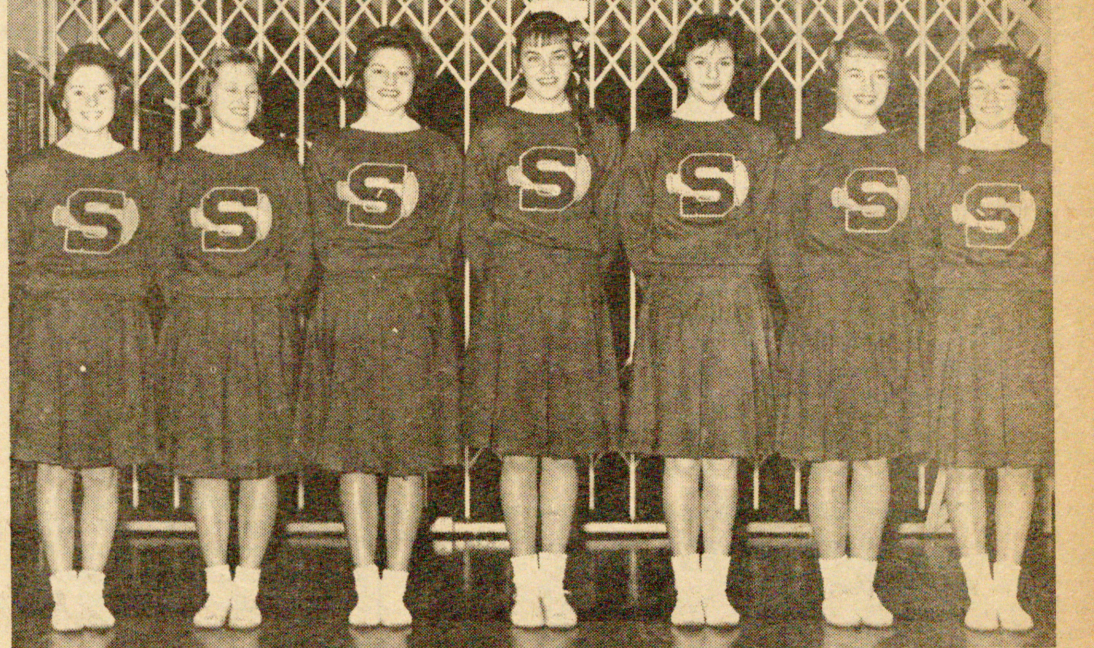

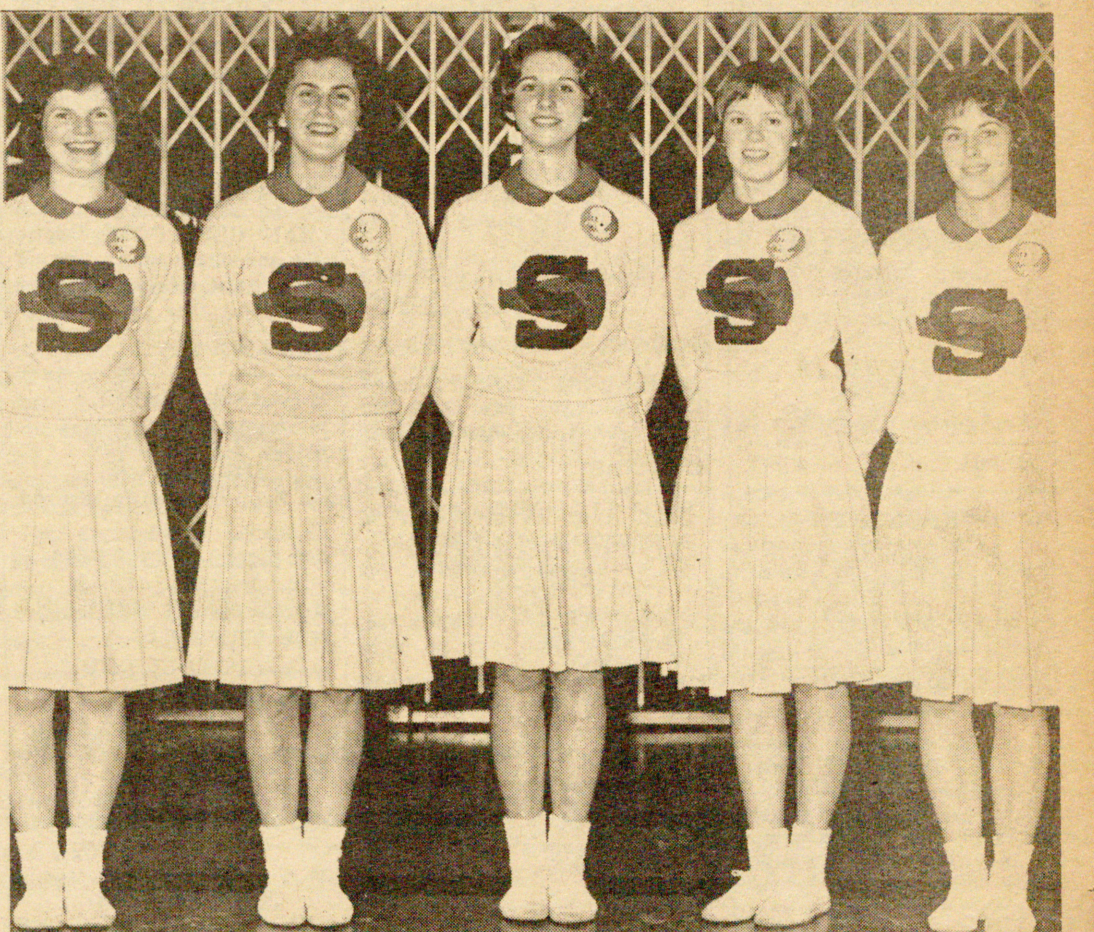

At half time the Eagles had a one point lead, 22 to 21 and still had the same margin when the third quarter ended, 32-31. It was a ding-dong battle from opening whistle to the end. The lead kept changing hands like a quarter at a church bazaar and the crowd could not have been more tense had the state title been at stake.

The fourth and final frame was a repeat of the preceding stanzas. The score was tied up three times, the last one at 46 all and only seconds left. As a matter of fact the timer's watch showed 15 seconds to go when Ted Levine, a guard for Sandburg, layed one up to make it 48-46 for the Eagles. The Braves took a time out with five seconds left in a desperate effort to comeup with some game winning strategy but couldn't connect and time ran out.

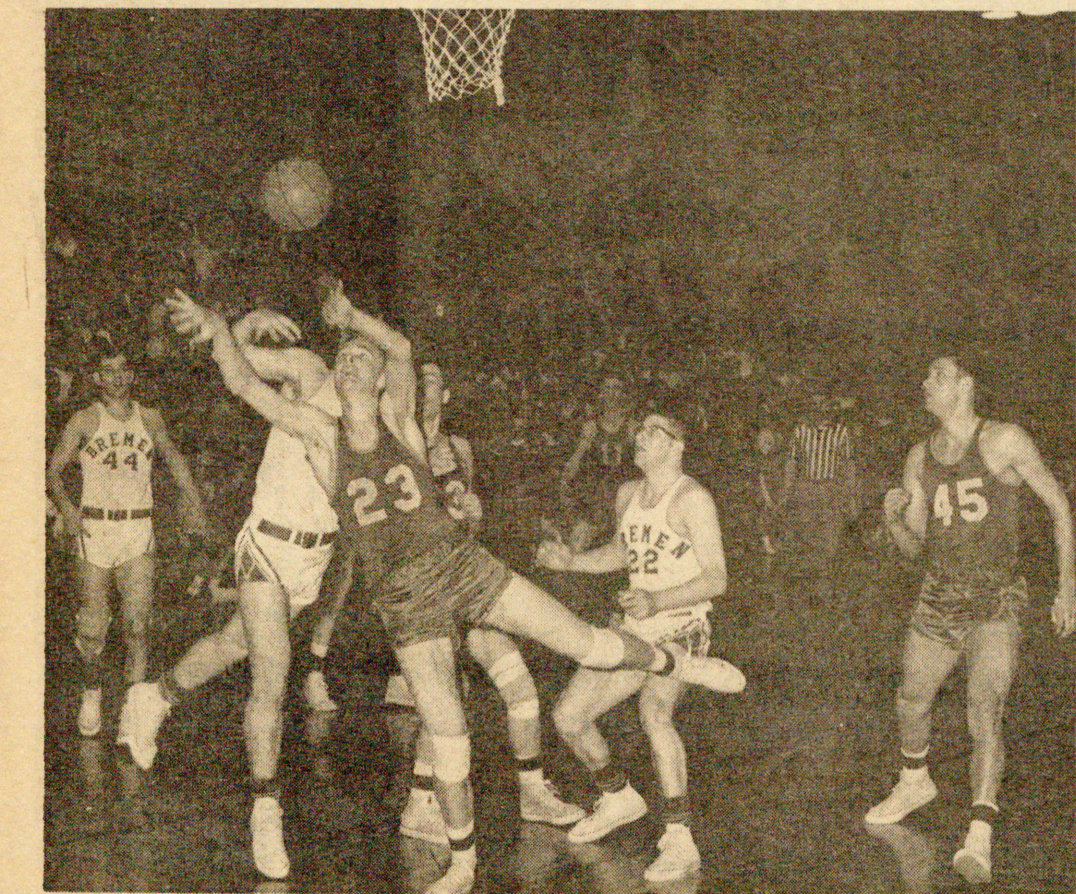

It was a tough game to lose but the crowd loved every minute of it.

Coach Bill Brown of the Braves has been building all year and Bremen is expected to be tough next season. This year the Braves finished in fourth place in the conference.

CHEER LEADERS at Sandburg high are all girls and good looking ones too. The basketball season has been a busy one for them and now with tournaments all over the place it is really hectic. The girls in white are the frosh-soph cheer leaders. They are (l to r), Barbara Balanchard and Helen Bradford, sophomores;

NICE FOOTWORK -- Looks something like a skater's motion but one can't have too much motion while ball handling in basketball or one is called for traveling. No. 23 is Sandburg's Ron Lindgren and No. 45 is Bill Gorney, Bremen's No. 22 is John Mannafoni and No. 44 coming up there from the left is Rich Norbur.

Girl Scouts Conduct Cookie Sale Drive

Over 2,000 Intermediate and senior girl scouts of Trailways council will be taking orders this week to raise money for the council's campsite fund. This marks the fourth year the girls have sold cookies to raise funds for a multi-purpose campsite which can be developed specifically to meet the needs of the Girl Scout program.

Five kinds of Girl Scout cookies will be available at 40¢ a box; but girls are not to accept payment until the cookies are delivered. In the past years many persons have called for re-orders after delivery of the cookies. Since orders are taken only once a year, it is impossible to fulfill such requests, therefore Mrs. H. Forrest Beach, council cookie chairman, urges that everyone orders a sufficient number.

Cookie money has made it Ridge, the council's leased troop camping site near Monee, with three units for 72 girls with tents, tent platforms, cots and mattresses. Last year 864 girls under the leadership of 164 adults camped at the site for one night or longer.

Girl Scouts will be taking orders until Sunday March 5. Anyone not yet contacted who wishes to order cookies may call Jerry Lang, Mokena 3431 or Mrs. James Sugg, Frankfort 4511. Mrs. Clifford Allen is assistant council cookie chairman. Assisting Mrs. Beach and Mrs. Allen in this area will be Mrs. Herbert Folkers of Frankfort.

Someone's going to kiss and someone's going to tell—otherwise the title, "Kiss and Tell," a comedy to be presented by the Lincoln-Way Community Players March 23, 24 and 25 in the Lincoln-Way high school auditorium would mean nothing.

The coming play will be the sixth production of the Lincoln-Way Players and tickets are now available.

The action takes place in the World War II era and shows how easily misunderstanding can develop thru neighborhood gossip. This gay comedy was played 10 years ago in Mokena to standing-room-only audiences. Only two of the original group are repeating their roles, Mrs. Kenneth Sherwood is again the director and Mrs. Henry Clark is repeating her portrayal of Mrs. Archer, Corliss' mother.

The cast also includes Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Richards, organization, its advisors, students and guests were responsible for seeing that the rules are enforced.

Formal invitations will be sent to all senior, faculty and honored guests on April 17. The person must return an acceptance by May 2. Tickets to the prom will be handed out on the first three days of the prom week in the lunch lines. There will be no charge for an outside guest to attend.

Freshmen are not eligible to attend the dance and each Lincoln-Way student, eligible, is limited to one guest. The affair will begin at 9:30 p.m. and end at 1 a.m. Violation of the rules by either the student or guest may result in loss of the student's privileges.

South Cook County 4-H Program Is Active One

by WILLIAM F. WHITESIDE, COOK COUNTY ASSOC. FARM ADVISOR

4-H Club work is conducted by the extension service of the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. Through the resources of the College of Agriculture, 4-H Club members are furnished with 4-H manuals, record books, activity folders, and other printed and professional information. The local extension service representative in every county is the farm adviser, home adviser, and their assistants.

The 4-H Club program in Cook county is locally planned through consultations with 4-H Club leaders, 4-H committees, and the extension council. This is a year-round program. Each phase of the program is evaluated upon completion. This evaluation is taken into consideration when future programs of a similar type are planned.

4-H Club work in Cook county has many friends who furnish financial support and other necessary resources. To list them all here would be an impossibility. They represent various phases of business, industry and service organizations. Several locally organized groups, such as Fair Associations, Farm Bureau and Home Bureau, furnish substantial support. In addition, various individuals as well as 4-H Members and parents provide vital assistance throughout the year.

Some of the highlights of the 4-H Club program this year include the following:

CAMPING

Over 200 4-H'ers from Cook county, approximately half of them from southern Cook county, attended the district 4-H camp, Camp Shaw-Waw-Nas-See, located northwest of Kankakee. On this 103 acre camp sight, 4-H'ers learned to enjoy and appreciate the great outdoors, as well as take part in sports, swimming, crafts, and other recreational activities. The camp period this year will be June 26-30.

In addition to 4-H camp, four outstanding 4-H members are invited to attend the State Leadership camp. South Cook was represented by Walter Wille, Tinley Park and Agnes Enzweiler, Steger.

Richard Wille, Tinley Park and Leslie Yunker, Orland Park, attended 4-H Wildlife Conservation camp.

GRAIN MARKETING

A local committee with the following members; Marvin Kampe, Ed Bochmann, Tinley Park; Herbert Kohl, Matteson, planned and conducted this activity. The wind-up of the program was a tour to a terminal grain elevator where 4-H'ers saw the handling of grain from truck, rail and water transportation. They also saw an ocean-going vessel being loaded with United States grain for shipment to a foreign port.

This area had a state winner in the grain marketing activity, Leslie Yunker, Orland Park. He attended a statewide tour centered around the grain marketing theme in Chicago.

HEALTH ACTIVITY

Over 85 4-H members took part in the Keeping-Fit Field Day event, one of the 4-H health activities. Over twice that many participated in the other phase; First-Aid.

Tinley Park. This organization has four adult advisers. They are Henry Veldhuizen, Glenwood; Mrs. Marvin Cooper, Orland Park; Earl Siemsen, Tinley Park and Mrs. Carl Johnson, Richton Park.

Other County 4-H activities include a recognition banquet for local leaders, a window display contest for all 4-H clubs, a 4-H fair and plowing contest, 4-H king and queen contest, demonstration training, and Share-the-Fun. In addition, subject matter training in various 4-H projects is carried on throughout the year.

The important thing in the 4-H program are the boys and girls who are members. All of the projects and activities are merely vehicles to which are tied growth experiences for the boys and girls. The aim of 4-H club work is to make the best better. We do this through learning by doing. When they enroll 4-H members pledge their heads to clearer thinking, their hearts to greater loyalty, their hands to larger service, their health to better living for their club, their community and their country.

The most important resource of the United States today is her youth. The 4-H program is organized for young people from farm and city. Anyone interested in more information or in organizing a 4-H Club in their community should contact the Association Farm Adviser.

JUDGING

A county and district schools were held for 4-H'ers interested in judging vegetables. By the process of elimination, the following team represented Cook county at the state vegetable judging contest: Elaine and Leslie Yunker, Orland Park; Jack Uthe, Markham; Leslie Berner and Jean Siemsen, Tinley Park.

4-H FEDERATION

This organization offers an opportunity for older 4-H members from all of the clubs in the county, to get together for recreational education and community service. These young people plan and conduct the 4-H Rally, the achievement program, and the officers' training program. Time is devoted at the Federation meetings for an exchange of successful ideas used in 4-H clubs throughout the county. Each Federation meeting has an educational feature, as well as ample time for recreation and refreshments.

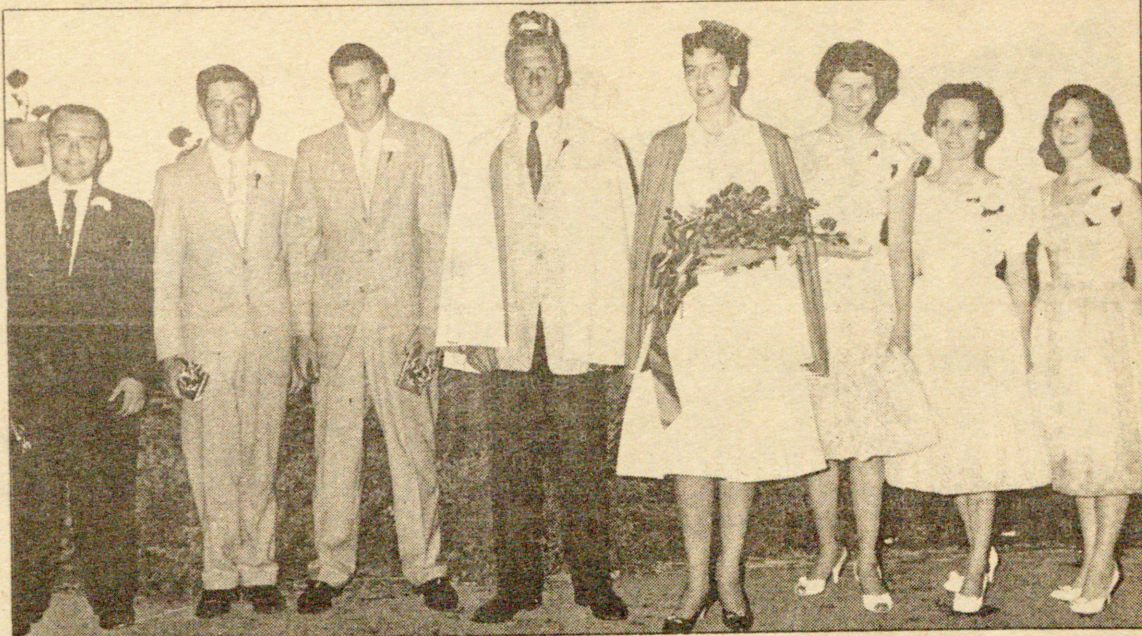

The officers of the Federation in 1960 were James Bussema, president and Anita Wetzel, treasurer, Chicago Heights; Joan Uthe, vice-president, Markham; Jean Siemsen, secretary, Tinley Park. Current officers are: Joan Uthe, president; Jack Uthe, treasurer; Roy Bettenhausen, vice-president,

Monee Miss Receives 4-H Honor

One of the greatest thrills in the "career" of a 4-H member is being selected as a delegate to National 4-H Club Congress. This year, Miss Beverly Torok of Monee received that high honor. She was one of the 15 girls selected from Illinois. Delegates were chosen from more than 72,000 Illinois 4-H members.

Club Congress is conducted by the State Extension service and the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Cooperation with the National 4-H Service committee. In this big 6 day conference at the Conrad Hilton Hotel, delegates sit in on group discussions, hear prominent speakers, talk with delegates from foreign countries and are entertained at banquets and concerts.

Beverly is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Torok. She is a member of the Green Garden Snip & Snack 4-H Club and is presently attending the University of Illinois.

Will County 4-H Holds A Soil Conservation School

Will County 4-H received recognition from the Illinois Bankers' Association last year. Everett Cooper from Mokena State Bank, representing the bankers' group presented a plaque to the county 4-H organization for its promotion of the 4-H Soil conservation and management project in the past year's program.

With the support of Farm Adviser A. A. Wicklein, assistant

Farm Adviser Joe Joeek planned 4-H soil schools with Allan May, Will County Soil Conservation Service technician. Tom Morgan, Will County Soil Conservation Service technician, along with Farm Adviser Wicklein assisted in planning and conducting three soil schools. Associate Farm Adviser Bill Whiteside from South Cook also assisted in the program.

Those 4-H members enrolled in soil conservation projects were invited, along with interested parents, to attend the three schools. Subject matter covered in the schools varied from soil origin to minimum tillage.

Soil scientists from Kankakee explained the origin of Illinois soils at the first school. Slides were shown to demonstrate how three glaciers nearly covered the whole state. The effects of chemical and physical weathering, plus the prairie grasses' contribution to Illinois' rich top soil, were also credited as playing a major role.

At the second school, Mrs. Lur-eno Seitsinger, Will County Farm Bureau soil testing technician, explained her job. She showed the group the steps in testing soil samples for needed limestone and amounts of available phosphate and potash.

The third school covered soil and plant relationships. Drainage was discussed by Morgan, while Wicklein covered the topic of soil fertility and fertilizer programs. A movie on minimum tillage was also shown to the group of 4-H'ers, parents, and leaders assembled.

Then 4-H members presented demonstrations at the schools. Chester Wilke, a member of Green Garden Go-Getters demonstrated various soil particle sizes. The youngster pointed out that fine particles travel in suspension longer and that is why some of the state's finer top soil is in the Mississippi Delta.

Dale Meyer, Jackson Champions, presented a demonstration on the effects of excess water on plants. His demonstration also included a plant's stunted growth from a shortage of water. Tom Zander, Jr., of the Homer Fire Flies, had a demonstration on the fertility of various levels of soil. The youngster had dug down three feet to obtain samples from the top soil and sub-soil. Young Zander then planted seed in each potted jar of soil. The plant in the sub-soil sample did not look as healthy as the plant in the topsoil sample. The difference in growth and vigor was caused by most nutrients being unavailable in the sub-soil.

A tour was held as the final event. Persons attending the tour had a chance to see a good example of poor soil care and management. However, the group saw such good soil conservation practices as grass waterways, crop rotations, strip cropping, contour farming, farm ponds, pine plantations, concrete structures, and a permanent pasture of birds foot trefoil. The Will and South Cook Counties Soil Conservation Districts provided lunch for the tour group.

The program had a chance to promote good soil care and management, plus stimulate more interest in a neglected 4-H project—Soil Conservation and Management. Through the cooperation of youngsters and parents, the program enjoyed success. It was a cooperative program from the beginning to the end. Both agencies of the United States Department of Agriculture, the Soil Conservation Service, and the Agricultural Extension Service cooperated "to make the best better".

Klover K-9's Are Newest Will Co. Club

The Klover K-9's 4-H Club is a new Will County 4-H Club. Two interesting items about this new club are noteworthy. First, the club is open to members in the 4-H dog care project living throughout the county. Second, the club is an outgrowth of a new 4-H project which was started in the county last year.

Mrs. E. C. Olsen of New Lenox is the leader of the county's only canine 4-H club. Mrs. Olsen last year provided training tips to five 4-H youngsters enrolled in dog care. This year the five youngsters have grown to 21 4-H'ers in the canine project.

Members in the project decided to organize their own 4-H club and elect officers. Judy West, Lockport, was elected president; Mary Lou Kurth, Wilmington, vice president; Kathy Geiss, Elwood, secretary; James Chladek, New Lenox, treasurer; and Beverly Otis, New Lenox, reporter. Karen Erickson, New Lenox and Paula Sandberg, Plainfield, were elected recreation chairmen. Paula was also selected as the club's Federation delegate along with Ramona Kaatz of Plainfield.

During the winter months, the club held indoor meetings. Parents and youngsters have been attending all winter meetings in large numbers. After each meeting, a special program is planned with refreshments provided by designated families as the concluding event.

Outdoor training sessions will start in April at the Fred A. Francis 4-H Field. In case of bad weather conditions, the members and their pets can work under shelter provided by the huge indoor arena and barn facility at the 4-H Field.

Some members who were in the project last year will be able to take part in advanced training. However, most of the dog club members will be starting with basic dog training steps.

With the practical knowledge on dogs, experience and interest in her 4-H youngsters, Mrs. Olsen plans to "make the best better".

4-H Soil And Wildlife Conservation Programs Set

The coming year's program for youngsters enrolled in soil and wildlife conservation 4-H projects will again provide opportunities for personal contacts. Youngsters enrolled in the projects will be able to attend specially conducted schools for their education.

Wildlife conservation youngsters will receive training in building wildlife shelter and feeding sites. Forrest Loomis, district wildlife conservationist for the Illinois Conservation Department, will provide technical information on building practical wildlife improvement areas. The program will be conducted by the Will County Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service and Illinois Department of Conservation. A tour to the wildlife nursery at Yorkville is also included in the plans.

Youngsters enrolled in the Soil Conservation program last year will be visited by county extension personnel and soil conservation technicians to discuss farm planning. Soil type maps were given to many youngsters enrolled last year and these maps will be discussed on the farm visits. These youngsters will also be invited to the wildlife schools, as many wildlife conservation practices are related to soil conservation.

Training in using a surveyor's level and setting up a few problems are also included in plans for the soil conservation youngsters. The soil 4-H'ers will also be invited to get experience and an education when the Soil Conservation personnel are on actual soil conservation planning visits in each member's local area.

A combined FFA 4-H soil judging contest is also being planned for late summer. A training and practice session is also being planned for interested persons. The Will County Soil Conservation District will sponsor a traveling award for the winning team of the county's FFA 4-H soil judging contest.

WILL CO. HOME ADVISER

The goal of the Extensions 4-H program is to develop the country's most priceless resource - youth. Recently, in a letter to the Local Leaders' from the 4-H Staff at the University of Illinois, they referred to something called the "Local Leaders' Paycheck." It seems that once in awhile they find that someone thinks that 4-H leaders are paid for their work. Their answer is "Sure - but in ways money can't buy."

In Will County there are 33 Home Economics 4-H Clubs with a membership of 658. Some 70 leaders and a host of Junior leaders assist these youth in their program. DECISION TIME—Here is a class of Angus breeding cows being judged at the Will County 4-H Fair by George Mitchell of the U. of I. animal science Department (in the foreground).

4-H Junior Feeders Learn Beef Production

In recent years, programs to measure a beef animal's capability to produce a pound of beef efficiently have emerged from the broad field of agricultural research. Such programs consider the gaining ability and feed efficiency of animals. These two traits plus others are not only of importance to the beef producer, but to the consumer as well. Through such programs, quality beef can be produced efficiently and economically.

Will County 4-H'ers enrolled in beef feeding projects can take part in a similar testing program. Known as Junior Feeders, the program was started last year. One aim was to emphasize beef production factors such as gaining ability and feed costs per pound of beef produced instead of the standard show ring judging.

Last year, Dale Meyer, Manhattan, fed the top steer, a Hereford, in the efficiency program. Young Meyer's steer had an average daily gain of 2.33 pounds and twelve cents per pound of beef produced for its feed costs.

Each animal in the program was placed according to total points scored. The scoring considered average daily gain, feed costs, and a type score given by the 4-H beef judge. Animals were weighed at the beginning and end of the feeding period. Every youngster in the program was required to keep accurate records.

This year several other items were considered and will be included in the final scoring. Besides average daily gain and feed costs, the purchase price, possible selling price, and a slaughter cattle grade were added to the scoring column. The grading of Junior Feeders on the hoof will be done by packer buyers or commission men.

Although still in its infant stage, the program faces adjustment and readjustment. Will County Assistant Farm Adviser Joe Jopek states that with continued leader, parent, and 4-H'ers interest and support, the Junior Feeders will prove to be an effective and practical program in producing quality beef efficiently.

BAA-BAA—There is plenty of baaing by the sheep and wrestling for these 4-H'ers at a line-up for the judging of a sheep class at the Will County 4-H Fair held last June.

4-H Tractor Maintenance Project Busy

The 4-H Tractor Maintenance project involves a detailed county program. In late winter, three schools are held covering various phases of tractor maintenance. In summer, a tractor operators' contest is held to find the county's top tractor operator. This youngster represents the county at the state event in Springfield.

At the tractor schools, the 4-H'ers are taught ways to save themselves possible equipment replacement or repair costs. Safety is also another phase covered in the schooling sessions.

Various implement dealers are contacted for assistance in the school. The dealers usually provide mechanics, tractors, equipment and printed materials. This year, Swanberg Implement, Mokena, and Yunker Implement, Or-Caterpillar Tractor Company supplied movies.

Leaders are also involved in the program. Lawrence Meyer, Manhattan, has assisted in the program over the past eleven years. This year also, Francis Johnston of Wilmington and Jerry Kestel, Manhattan, assisted with the program.

4-H'ers also take part in the program by presenting demonstrations on various topics covered in their tractor project manuals. Members who gave demonstrations this year were Rodney Underwood, Custer Park, Robert DeMik, Beecher, Doug Klott, Joliet, George Roemer, Manhattan, Allan and Lane Heathewick, Frankfort.

The 1961 4-H tractor schools were held in the Joliet Township High School agriculture classrooms. Max Kuster, vo-ag instructor for the school, cooperated with extension personnel and 4-H leaders conducting the 4-H tractor schools.

Standard Oil Company, the national sponsors of the 4-H Tractor Maintenance project, provide manuals, leader training, and technical assistance for the tractor program.

Fred Francis 4-H Field Is Will County 4-H Home

The Fred A. Francis 4-H Field is Will County's new 4-H home. It is located on an 18 acre tract given to Will County 4-H by the late Fred A. Francis. Francis served as chairman of the County Board of Supervisors and also provided 4-H leadership to youngsters in the Frankfort New Lenox 4-H Club. His widow, Mrs. Anne Francis of Wilmington, is still quite interested in 4-H.

The 4-H Field, at present has two buildings, an outdoor show ring and fireplace. The facilities now available at the county's new 4-H home were the result of co-operative efforts shown by adult groups, 4-H clubs and interested persons. Money for the building projects was raised from a county wide rural area fund drive and from many 4-H club events. Besides actual financial support, many men, boys and some women and girls spent days and nights to complete parts of the buildings now at the 4-H Field.

One building is a combined livestock barn and indoor show arena. This building is massive, 14,000 square feet, and involved much planning and many hours of labor. Complete with electrical lighting, washrack, and a coat of white paint, this huge livestock shelter demonstrates what cooperation and will power can do.

UTILITY BUILDING

A utility building is the second building at the 4-H Field. Situated

ed inside a grove of Osage orange trees, the concrete block structure houses food handling facilities, a meeting room area and restrooms. It also has electrical and plumbing systems. Picnic tables are provided during the summer for family groups seeking a nice picnic area. The Osage orange trees also provides cooling shade in the hot summer, besides adding some natural scenic beauty to the site.

Located near the utility building is an outdoor fireplace. Built from money raised by the New Lenox Bluebirds 4-H Club, the handsome fireplace will also serve as a memorial to a deceased 4-H leader, Cici Baers Ruthenbeck.

Plans are now being discussed for a third building. This building will be larger, heated, have kitchen facilities and dining area for large groups.

Although the 4-H Field building program is not finished, a good start has been made. One man, Fred A. Francis, many years ago dreamed of a future home for Will County 4-H. That one man's dream today has become a reality for Will County 4-H'ers, leaders, parents and interested friends.

4-H WORK DAY--Quite a few 4-H leaders and members turned out on a nice day last summer to put the roof on the main exhibition building at the Fred H. Francis 4-H Field. The time and labor contributed helped to reduce the cost of the installation considerably.

New 4-H Project Is Home Grounds Beautification

Home grounds beautification is a 4-H project which gives any member an opportunity to improve his home and community surroundings. In order to give youngsters enrolled in this project some training, besides what is in the project manual, schools are being planned.

This project has several phases or units to be taken each year. A Will County 4-H'er enrolled as a first year member in this project will clean up his home area to meet project's requirements.

By advancing through the other units, the member becomes acquainted with what is involved in making a plan for his home grounds. In his advanced years, the member has made a plan and is in the process of planting the plant materials suggested in his plans.

The schools being planned for Will County Home Grounds Beautification project members will involve local greenhouse and nursery operators. Training on selecting trees and shrubs plus the many plant materials available for plantings will be covered at the schools. Also the use of flowers, flower beds and types of flowers to use are to be included.

The schools will be a first time venture in the home ground beautification 4-H project.

The deadline for the home-grounds beautification 4-H project is June 1.

Counselor Comments On Will 4-H Camp

4-H Camp Shaw-waw-nas-see, located nine miles northwest of Kankakee is where Will County 4-H'ers spend a week camping. Besides the many youngsters attending 4-H camp each year, adults camp and serve as counselors also.

One such adult and 4-H parent, Robert J. Regan of Crete, attended Camp Shaw-waw-nas-see last year as a counselor. Part of his small camp fee was paid by the Will County Health Association. To express his appreciation for the organizations support he wrote a letter, parts of which are included below.

"The full meaning the purpose of 4-H and Camp Shawanasee escaped us as parents . . . but after serving as counselors last summer and participating in the wholesome and healthful activities of camp life a feeling of deep respect and pride for all the dedicated leaders of 4-H has resulted. No more do I just nonchalantly say, 'Yes, my daughter belongs to 4-H.' I now interject the virtues of 4-H into every conversation with parents of qualified children.

The memories of Camp Shawanasee will always brighten my future years . . . all that is necessary for me to do is close my eyes and I can recall the singing of 'Coming 'round the Mountain - Whoo-back, hi-babe' -- the screaming and laughter from the swimming pool-- the 'Swing your Partner' from the dance shelter -- the sound of an electric saw from crafts -- the pledge of allegiance around the flag -- the glow of the campfire and the flickering of the candles during the candlelight ceremonies -- and last, but not least, the snickering, giggling, little demons getting in the last licks before lights out -- yes, pleasant memories that will last forever.

You policy of helping counselors serve our children at 4-H camp is a very wise one indeed. The training and guidance received by the children during their camp life could not be experienced in any other manner. In this endeavor we can all feel justly proud."

Lacettes 4-H

Have Busy 1961 Schedule

The Lacettes Home Economic 4-H Club is comprised of 16 young ladies who are preparing for the future as homemakers. Photography, sewing, cooking and first aid are among several projects which are offered to the girls in the 4-H club program.

Some of the activities scheduled in the club program are several tours, one of which includes the Health Museum in Hinsdale. Also scheduled are recreational get-togethers, such as roller skating, bowling and swimming.

The Lacettes 4-H Club is located in the surrounding area south of Westmont and north of Route 66. The members meet the third Friday of each month at the Lace School to hold their business meeting. In addition, the girls meet once a month with the leaders to work on their projects. Mrs. Richard N. Petras and Mrs. Albert Peterson of Downers Grove are the club leaders. Mrs. Glen Runyan and Mrs. Robert Wood of Westmont are assistant leaders.

Busy 66 Girls Help WTTW-TV

This year marks the fifth anniversary of the Busy 66 4-H club of DuPage County. The club began in 1956 under the leadership of Mrs. Roger Pierce. At the present time Pat Biermann is assistant leader and Nancy Biermann junior leader. Leaders is Mrs. Roger Pierce.

The group meets every month at Cass school northwest of Lemont. There are 15 girls enrolled.

The girls' big project in 1960 was raising $159 for educational channel 11, W. T. T. W. - TV. Nancy Wallace collected the largest amount during the drive and therefore was named Queen of the Channel 11 4-H dance. Martha Smith was runner-up.

This year much planning has been taking place to decide how they will spend the money they received from selling Whitman candies. As of now they plan to spend a day in Chicago, touring McCormick Place, taking in a style show and having lunch out. It time permits a couple hours may be spent at the Museum of Science and Industry.

Working together and doing things for others is important for all young people to learn and practice. 4-H teaches this in many of its activities, also in the different projects required.

A University of Illinois soil conservationist predicts that, by the year 2,000, the population of the United States will probably be about 85 per cent urban.

DuPage 4-Hers Plan Active 4-H Week

Many window displays will be seen in store and public windows all over the county during National 4-H week, which is from March 4-11. All clubs may participate and the National theme will be "Live, Learn and Serve Through 4-H". Sometime during the week three judges will rate each window display and each exhibit will be rated A, B, or C. The three top A's will be given plaques.

The big event of the week will be the 4-H Fun Night to be held at the Home Economics Building on the DuPage County Fair Grounds. All 4-Hers, parents and friends are invited. There will be games and square dancing, and the Window Display ribbons will be awarded at the meeting.

Todays 4-H Youth Tomorrow's Leaders

It could be the family a half-mile down the road or up the highway a bit and then again it could be the family next door who displays the 4-H sign in their window. No matter where you find members of the 4-H you can rest assure they are good Americans. They are persuing youthful activities that will prepare them for leadership in the future.
